Seed Out Exchange Policy Announced by Field Crops Branch of Dept. Agriculture

The Alberta Department of Agriculture, through Mr. E. L. Gray, field crops commissioner, has announced a seed out exchange policy in the Peace River. The elevator companies are co-operating with the department in making available out of 2 C.W. grade that have been held in their elevators from last year's crop. These are being exchanged for feed oats.

Any farmer who wishes to secure seed out for sale, should apply to the nearest elevator company. The seed out is available for sale at 2 C.W. grade, but the elevator companies are not to be held responsible for the quality of the seed out. The seed out is available for sale at 2 C.W. grade, but the elevator companies are not to be held responsible for the quality of the seed out.

It is hoped by this offer of exchange that farmers in the Peace River who were from last summer will be able to get suitable seed for their crops. The seed out is available for sale at 2 C.W. grade, but the elevator companies are not to be held responsible for the quality of the seed out.

Any further information necessary can be secured from W. J. Thomson, district agricultural officer, Peace River, who is in charge of the work of the Department in the Peace River.

Explains Hornby Plan of Land Settlement

The council chamber of Grande Prairie's town hall was comfortably filled Thursday evening with citizens who wished to hear J. P. Martin of the Canadian National Railways Department of Colonization explain the Hornby emigration and land settlement plan.

Mr. Martin said that in brief, the scheme is to have organizations representing towns and cities in the old country purchase land in Canada upon which they will erect model buildings and supply the necessary equipment.

Mr. Martin explained how it is hoped to raise the necessary capital. He said that the money for the purchase of the land would be borrowed from the British government at a low rate of interest.

Re "The Big Liner"

By ARTHUR JACKSON

Last week the newspaper craft of one of the Tribune's contemporaries again apparently was in troubled waters and there is reason to believe the cause was the Tribune's editorial policy. About a year ago this same contemporary missed one sailing, which probably did not make a hit with some of the "poets of call," but to repeat the shortcoming, this time it risked leaving the home harbor with one of its eight holds containing nothing but ballast—and such ballast.

Unquestionably the Tribune's prestige was enhanced by comparison of the cleanliness and wit of the full cargo of news with the dirtiness of the rotten ballast, but the harm done newspaper work probably more than offsets the Tribune's gain.

It is a regrettable fact that a large propaganda picture of ancient Egypt, donated months ago by a city daily and used before by the contemporary, was placed on the Tribune's masthead. The picture always has several extra up-to-the-minute newspaper illustrations in its special picture service and one of these could have been found for the sacking.

It is just too bad, but last week's issue of The Tribune's contemporary speaks loudly and somewhat poetically of a cover striving desperately to keep their craft off the rocks. How they must have heaved! How they must have heaved for ten or twelve columns of the Tribune's contemporary!

Because of its pride in newspaper work, The Tribune, in true fraternal spirit, offers to aid its contemporary the next time it is hard to find. With its better equipment and more experienced crew, The Tribune can give such help without endangering its own schedule.

The over-all picture of the Tribune's contemporary is a noble one. It is a newspaper that is a credit to the industry. It is a newspaper that is a credit to the industry. It is a newspaper that is a credit to the industry.

With the Boy Scouts

By ARCH McEWEEN
Hythe, Alberta

Oh Grampa, tell me a story. Of the North where you used to be, Of the things you used to do, And the things you used to see.

Grampa smiled on the little folk. As they gazed with expectant looks, For he knew they loved the stories. Far better than reading books.

"How would you like to hear to-night, Before you go to sleep, Of one of the white snows up there, And the wind and the snow so deep."

The old man smiled as he looked around. And then he went away to bed. His knees they all were pleased, For they shared from one in the other. Little hands with joy were squeezed.

"The storm that I remember best, Happened in '33. We were living in the town of Hythe, You remember the place, I see."

The early frosts had ruined the crops And people were on relief. From a local Baden-Powell Scout troop Would have caused just plenty of grief.

The snow came in October, And then it went away to bed. All said the winter would be mild, And everyone was glad to see it.

But during the month of December The winds began to blow. And the people stayed in their homes, And the snow was on the ground so low.

A few days before Christmas The temperature dropped. The snow was on the ground so low, And everyone was glad to see it.

Your Dad was one of those hardy lads, Who always liked the cold. He was a Scout, and he was a hero, And he was a Scout, and he was a hero.

Never expecting Arctic storms, And thus he almost froze. Old-timers said the storm would end, And Max would be a Scout, and he was a Scout.

One day, it was a Friday, The wind began to blow. With greater gusts than previously, And the snow was on the ground so low.

The blizzard lasted two whole days, Piling the snow about our heads. We could hardly hear each other, And the wind was on the ground so low.

We fairly had to about. Your Dad ventured forth to town, But he was a Scout, and he was a hero, And he was a Scout, and he was a hero.

Finally the storm spent its force, And the sun came out to see. The drifts were still very deep, It really quite a feat to see.

Four people in the country Were forced their food to ration. For they couldn't visit the village, And the snow was on the ground so low.

After years, you in the North, The storm was on the ground so low. But never did they equal, The one of that drastic year.

Old-timers still remember About that storm so long ago. And stories still are told, Of the snow that was on the ground so low.

So children, now away to bed, And thank your lucky Star. That your home was warm and cheery, And the snow was on the ground so low.

A Winter Day In The Peace River District
(By Maud McEween in the Vancouver Daily Province.)

The great and silent land of the Peace has a beautiful view, even her draperies are brilliant-like, for every shadow is cast in a way that is a thing of beauty. The old gnarled willows and poplars that grow here have many a fine tree, and the children of the Peace have a white ethereal beauty.

The window-panes are etched in delightful designs. What marvelous and beautiful patterns of fernery and flowers have been etched in the window-panes, as if to say, "I know it's cold, you must be weary of staying indoors, so I have etched these patterns for you, like a weary entertaining her child out of the North."

The snow is banked away up high along the fence; children with their white snow shoes are now lying down these tiny mountains.

The children are now lying down these tiny mountains. The children are now lying down these tiny mountains.

Hundreds of white birds fill through the crisp cold air; they light for a few minutes on the fence and in the snow, ruffle their feathers and are off again, disappearing into the white, shadowy and limitless expanse of the North.

A young boy, dressed in hockey skates and a red sweater, is now lying down these tiny mountains. The young boy is now lying down these tiny mountains.

He whistles a popular tune, the world is his, and some day he will be a star hockey player.

After the children's regular meeting a "Court of Honor" meeting was held and the necessary business disposed of.

On Saturday, January 21, the Girl Guides were entertained at the home of one of their members, Miss Law. They played a few games and then went to the table, where they pulled Christmas crackers, and told jokes and ate to their heart's content. After supper they played a few more games and then went to bed.

With many thanks and good-byes to Miss Law and Miss Law for the enjoyable party, the Guides departed for their different homes.

"IT IS A PLEASURE AS WELL AS A DUTY TO SERVE"

Vermis are poor-paying laborers. What have the four years of depression taught us? Big minds co-operate. Petty ones always want to do something different. Before filling the house about out the old sawdust and let the earth bottom freeze deeply.

Times taken for granted frequently prove fallacious. Many a farmer has assumed that extensive credit was essential to modern industry and commerce. Credit was not needed at the time and during booming times but it was needed when the economy was in a slump.

UNCLE SAM MAY GET STOCK MARKET CONTROL

The leaders of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, which spent the last year investigating Wall Street stock and banking practices, may bear fruit during the present session of Congress, according to Senator Duncan Fletcher (to left), the committee's chairman, who revealed that recommendations will be made seeking federal regulation of the stock exchanges. Following the disclosures, which came to light under the searching inquiry of Ferdinand Pecora (top, center), counsel for the committee, who quizzed such big money men as J. P. Morgan (lower left), C. E. Mitchell (lower center), former head of the National City Bank, and Alfred Wiggin (top right), former head of the Chase National Bank, legislation will also be proposed to stop loopholes in the income tax laws. Advocates of federal stock control cite ruling of United States Supreme Court Justice Brandegee (lower right) that Congress may deny use of mails to any business conducted under conditions deemed injurious to public welfare.

NEW SPANISH CUSTOM TO PREVENT REVOLT

This looks like a wholesale hold-up—and it is, but within the law. Workers coming from factories in Barcelona, Spain, are being searched by police for bombs and other arms, following the recent anarchist revolt, in which seventy-five persons lost their lives. Scenes like this are common throughout the entire republic, as the government takes measures to prevent a recurrence of anarchist outbreaks.

EMPLOYMENT GAIN SHOWN
EXCEPT PRAIRIE PROVINCES

OTTAWA.—Four of the five Canadian economic areas registered heightened activity at the beginning of the past month, according to details of the employment situation issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Upwings were registered for the Maritime, Quebec, Ontario, and British Columbia. The prairie provinces showed a decline.

In Ontario, 5,741 firms making returns showed 352,800 employees on December 1, compared with 345,540 at the beginning of November.

In British Columbia, 811 firms reporting showed 70,000 employees on December 1 as against 68,777 on November 1.

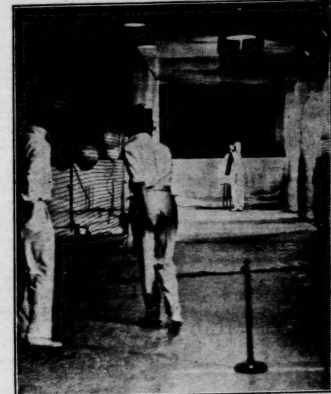

In the prairie provinces, 1,254 reporting employers had let out 4,627 workers, reducing their staffs to 111,714 on December 1, the Bureau states.

Continued increases were registered in Toronto, Hamilton, Windsor, and in Winnipeg, but there were small declines in Montreal, Quebec and Vancouver.

THE SOVIET COMMISSAR AT HOME

ANOTHER SPORTS INNOVATION STRIKES LONDON

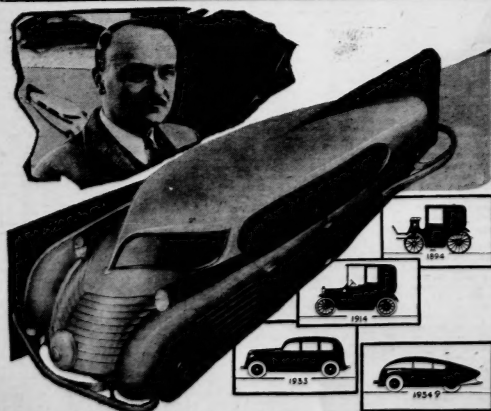

Alan Fairfax, the Australian bowler, who has played against England's finest cricket, has started a cricket school in London, which is run as a club. The club is in Thames House, and is just like any other club, except that instead of a squash court or swimming pool as its off-ice adjunct it has six covered cricket pitches, which are artistically lighted. Here is shown Fairfax hitting at the nets.

TOLD OF GUESTS' FIRE DEATH

Leander J. McCormick (right), Chicago millionaire, pictured with a friend as he left the inquest at Whitechapel, England, into the death of the Duc de la Tremoille of France, and the Honorable James Rodney, both of whom lost their lives in the fire which destroyed the "Hercyny," McCormick's English country home, recently.

Forecasts Revolution In Auto Design

(Left) A. Leyden-Frost in his modern New York studio. (Center) Design of Leyden-Frost for a completely aerodynamic sedan. (Right) The history of the automobile's development, from the old Saxon to the modern streamliner, as sketched by Leyden-Frost.

Important changes in automobile design of the near future are forecast by A. Leyden-Frost, famous industrial engineer-designer. Aerodynamic sedans and scientific streamliners are superseding the primitive auto designings which was based on the old horse-drawn carriage tradition. Future design is to be entirely functional—efficient rather than precedent will rule. With the application of aerodynamic science, auto models will experience great increases in economy, comfort and safety, Mr. Leyden-Frost declares. The new sedans are already being reflected in cars with rounded noses, wide fronts, tapering rears, roomier interiors, and solid-convex steel construction.

FIGURES IN FAMILY DRAMA

Mrs. Dorotha Irene Turley of St. John, Arizona, pictured with her son, David, and her 15-year-old daughter, Masha. According to the story of the daughter, who is awaiting sentence on a charge of murder, her mother ordered her to shoot her father, Ernest Turley (center), so that she might maintain a friendship with a handsome cowboy. Mrs. Turley once won the title of the "American Venus de Milo."
